Every figure in this document was pulled directly from the Meta Marketing API on 08 September 2026 across 112 ad accounts, 74 Pages and 26 Business Managers under this operator's access. Nothing is self-reported or estimated from memory — each number is traceable to an account ID, and the reconciliation method is documented at the end.

How the spend total is built. Ad accounts bill in their local currency — here 8,340,733 EGP plus USD and QAR accounts. The Egyptian pound moved from 15.7/USD in 2021 to 50.9/USD today, so converting the lifetime pound total at today's rate would understate the earlier years by roughly two-thirds. Every month of spend is therefore converted at that month's actual USD/EGP rate before being summed.

Industries worked in

16 distinct industries, ranked by verified media spend. Industry is assigned from the Facebook Page category attached to each account's campaigns, cross-checked against the account and brand

Unclassified: $19,452 (7.6% of total) across 9 account(s) could not be tied to a named brand with confidence. It stays in the career total but is not attributed to an industry.

How firmly each dollar is attributed

Attribution is only as good as its evidence, so here is the evidence, weighted by spend.

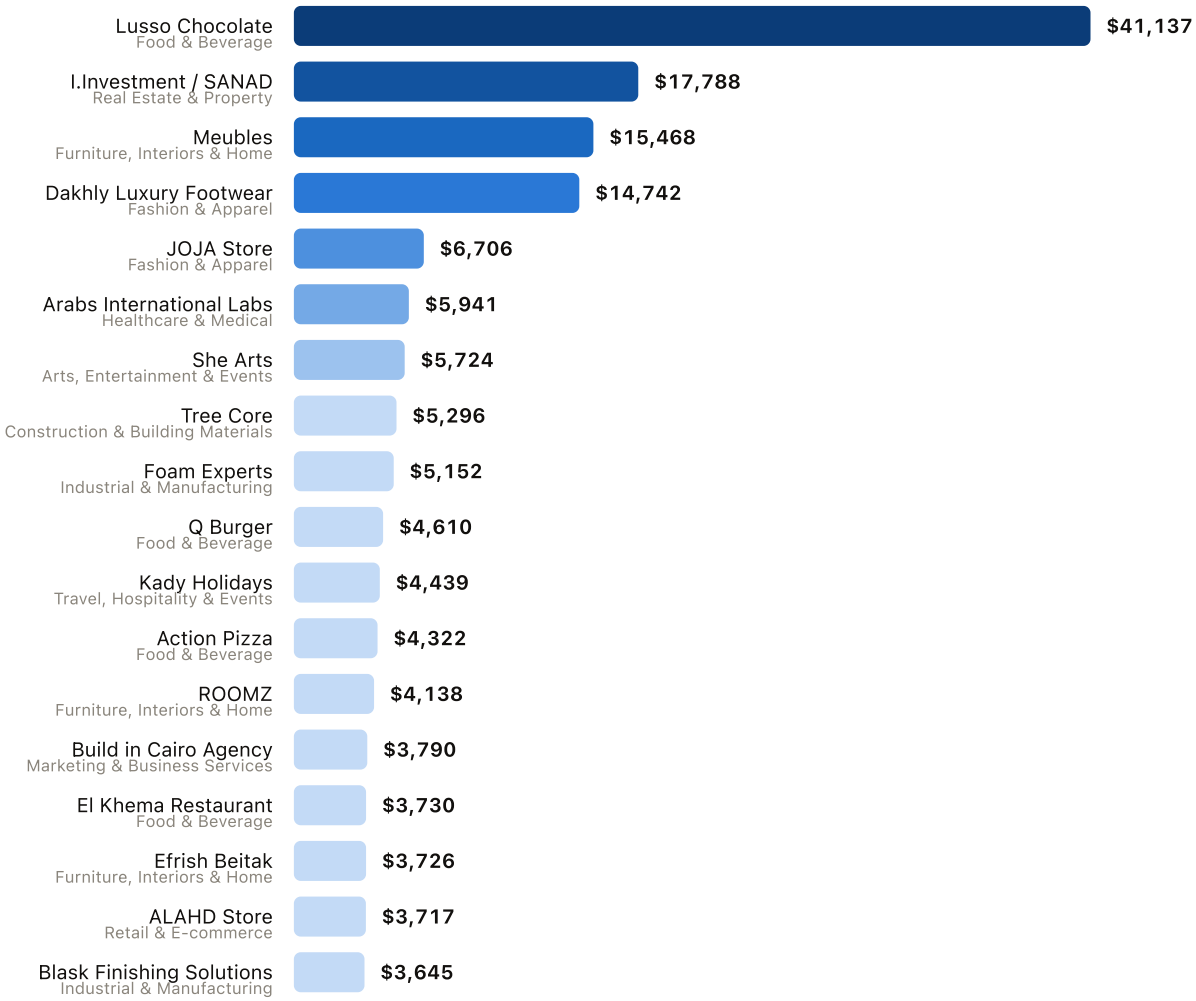

Matched by campaign name 85% Pro-rata within account 7% Account/Page name 0.4% Not attributable 8% 85.1% of all spend is tied to a brand by the campaign's own name. 7.6% is explicitly left unattributed rather than guessed.

SECTION 03

Brands & clients

85 identified brands with recorded spend. Attribution is done at campaign level — many ad accounts carried several brands at once, so account-level attribution would have been wrong.

Top 18 brands by verified media spend, USD.

Selected engagements

The largest engagements by media spend, each with its own delivery numbers. Efficiency metrics are computed from that brand's campaigns only. "Clicks" is Meta's all clicks metric, which includes post and profile interactions, so CTR runs higher and CPC lower than a link-click-only view.

Spend over time

Month-by-month managed spend, 2023-08 to 2026-09. Meta's Insights API returns a maximum of 37 months of history, so this is the full detailed record available.

Monthly managed media spend, USD (converted at each month's FX rate). The final point (2026-09) is a part-month and is lower for that reason alone.

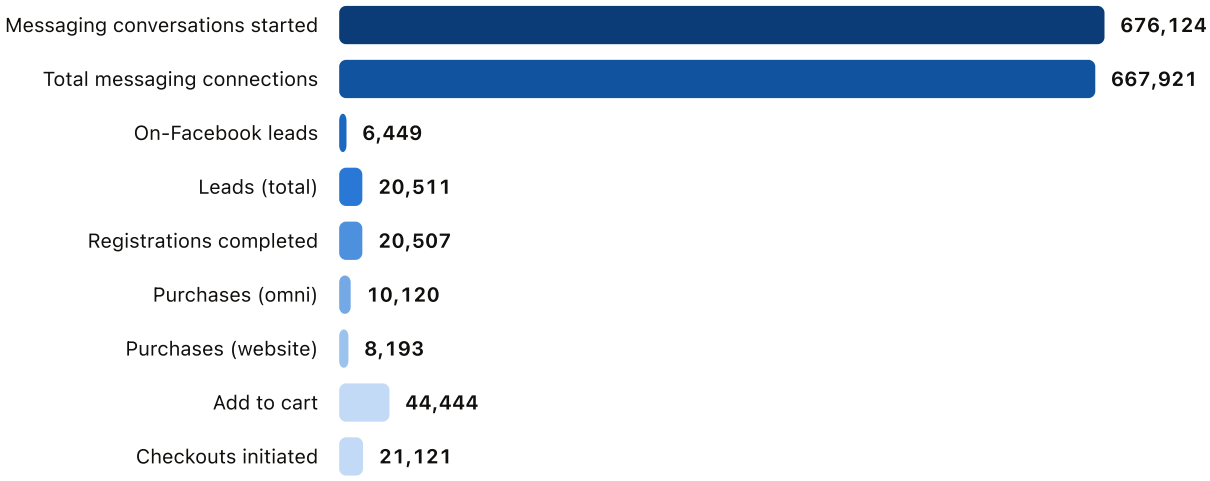

Annual managed spend, USD. Partial years at each end of the 37-month window.

APPENDIX B

Full ad account inventory

All 112 ad accounts reachable under this operator's Meta access, with lifetime spend in the account's own billing currency and the USD equivalent. Account names are not brand names — accounts were frequently reused across clients, so the largest brand actually running inside each one is shown separately. That is why an account called “El Kady Steel” sits under Food & Beverage: its biggest campaign was Action Pizza.

APPENDIX C

Method, sources & limitations

Stated plainly so any figure here can be audited or challenged.

Where the data comes from

- Source: Meta Marketing API v21.0, queried 08 September 2026 with an operator token carrying `ads_read`, `ads_management`, `business_management` and `read_insights`.
- Scope: 112 ad accounts, 74 Facebook Pages and 26 Business Managers visible to this token.
- Lifetime spend per account comes from the account's own `amount_spent` field, which is cumulative since the account opened — not from the insights window.

The 37-month boundary

Meta's Insights API refuses any query starting more than 37 months back. Month-level detail, impressions, clicks, reach, placement, country and attributed results therefore cover 2023-08 to 2026-09 only. Lifetime spend totals are not limited this way, so the career total is complete even where the monthly breakdown is not. Of $256,515 total, $249,241 (97.2%) falls inside the detailed window and $7,274 predates it.

How industries were assigned

Many ad accounts carried several brands at once, so attribution is done per campaign, not per account. Each of the campaigns with spend is matched against a brand dictionary built from the campaign names actually observed in these accounts (bilingual English/Arabic). Where a campaign name carries no brand signal, its spend is split pro-rata across the brands already identified inside that same account — and only when those identified campaigns represent at least 30% of the account, so a small amount of evidence can never decide a large amount of spend. Where that test fails, the spend is reported as unattributed rather than assigned. Every campaign and its attribution basis is listed in `data/11_campaigns.csv`.

Currency conversion

Accounts bill in EGP, USD and QAR. Each month's spend is converted at that month's actual USD rate (monthly USD/EGP and USD/KWD series; QAR is pegged at 3.64). Pre-window residual spend is converted at the average rate across the account's pre-window life. Using today's rate instead would understate 2021–2022 work by roughly 3×.

Integrity check performed

For every account opened after the window start, the independent `amount_spent` field was compared against the sum of monthly insights; all reconciled within 3%.

4 accounts were found where `amount_spent` under-reports actual spend — Meta resets that counter when a spend cap changes. On one account it read 206 QAR against 148,719 QAR of observed delivery. Lifetime spend is therefore taken as the greater of the reported field and the observed insights, which is why the totals here are higher than Ads Manager's own lifetime column would suggest.

Finally, the campaign-level attribution is reconciled back to the account-level verified totals: the two agree to the dollar ($256,515).

Known limitations — stated deliberately

- 2018–2021 work is not represented here. The earliest ad account dates to 2018-03-09, but no campaign records exist on it before 2022. Early-career freelance campaigns were run inside client-owned ad accounts that this token no longer has access to. That work is real but not machine-verifiable from this vantage point, so it is excluded rather than estimated.
- Non-Meta channels are absent. Google, TikTok, Snapchat and LinkedIn spend is not in this dataset — this is a Meta record only.

- Reach is not additive across accounts; the same person may be counted in more than one account's unique reach.
- Attributed results follow Meta's attribution settings at the time each campaign ran, which changed across iOS 14.5 and subsequent attribution updates.

Generated 08 September 2026 from live Meta Marketing API data · Mohamed Elsayed Hafez Adam · figures traceable to individual ad account IDs held in the accompanying CSV exports.
